The Law on Construction and Management of Yacht Marinas

This article focuses on the history of public law on yacht marinas and State ownership and reviews national and European law.

The author considers the effects of Constitutional Law No. 3/2001 which amended the Constitution and granted new legislative powers and administrative functions to regions. The impact of European law on construction and management of yacht marinas is also reviewed with respect to competition, joint venture between public entities and private corporations with particular emphasis on project finance.

The article ends with a review of private law governing rights and obligations of operators of recreational crafts users and the services provided by yacht marinas.
